JACKSON, MO., AUGUST 22, 1901.

WE used to think we understood what economy was but we must confess that we never knew anything about it till Bro. Kies explained it to us last week. Economy, from Bro. Kies' standpoint, means about this: You award a contract to do a certain piece of work to Mr. Jones for $60, and then he must do all the work, but it is not economy to you unless you give Smith $20 to do one-third of the very same work. We are satisfied with the explanation and if it meets the approbation of our readers we have nothing more to say.

"OFTEN," says the Volksfreund, "while the HERALD was the official organ when the day came to let the contract not a single bidder appeared. This we don't believe. It may have occurred once, two years ago when our circulation was small. Even if it were so it cost the county no additional expense to readvertise. Any contractor who knows his interests will either take or borrow the official paper of the county, hence we say again, it is needless expense to the county to advertise bridge notices in any other paper besides the official one."

THE printing of this county, financial statement and all, any newspaper man will admit is worth $150. Then why take it for loss? Because each paper in making its bid considered that it can take it for less, and that the prestige, and the exclusive right of publishing the county matter would make up the extra amount in dollars. By being the official organ its editor counts on contractors and others, interested in county affairs subscribing for the paper, and thus increase his circulation, but if the court pays for the matter to be played in other county papers this cuts off this source of revenue. See?

ONE thing to which we all object is paying a bill twice. When the county court pays one paper to do all the printing designated as county printing it has no right to pay another paper not under contract for doing the same work. The HERALD is the official organ this year. We took the contract to do the county printing for $84. That is all the county ought to pay, and if it is right for the court to pay the Volksfreund for publishing the bridge notices, bids, etc., because it happens to have some readers that don't take the HERALD, it is also right for the court to pay the Cash-Book, the Democrat, the Optimist, and the Progress the same amount paid the Volksfreund for they all have some subscribers that do not take the HERALD or Volksfreund. It may be true that in some postoffices in the county the Volksfreund has a few more subscribers than all the other county papers combined, but the HERALD has as many subscribers in the county on the whole as the Volksfreund, the Democrat, the Progress, the Optimist or the Cash-Book, and our books are open for inspection. This the county court knew when giving us the printing.

New Postal Regulation.

The postmaster general has issued an order to all postmasters and postal employees regarding second-class publications. In the future catch penny advertising journals will not be admitted. Neither will novels, etc. Publishers will only be allowed to send 50 per cent of their circulation in sample copies. News papers will not be allowed to return unused papers, books, magazines, etc., at the pound rate. No publication will be allowed to offer premiums for increasing circulation. Postmasters will be held on their bonds for any trouble they cause the government in admitting to the mails magazines and papers that should not be admitted under the order.

County Correspondence.

NEW WELLS.

Health is generally good. The late rains have done a great deal of good, although early corn was too far gone to make a great deal. Late corn is all O. K. Cabbage and tobacco are doing fine.

A. J. Wallman says he has the finest tobacco in the county.

Tobias Scholl has the finest field of corn in the state.

John Grosse, of Altenburg, is nearing completion of Albert Niederstadt's residence.

George Cameron left home four weeks ago and his parents are greatly distressed as they can find no trace of him. He is about 20 years of age. Send any information concerning him to postmaster.

Uncle Joseph McCain says he raised the biggest, finest and sweetest watermelon of the season.

HILL IRE.

A Suggestion.

If the J. M. A. has fallen through let us suggest that our citizens of this district and four adjoining districts form a high school district as provided by law.

Then buy the J. M. A. from the authorities and run a first-class high school. This would accommodate all the pupils who graduate from these four adjoining districts and this district, all would be eligible to this school without charge. This kind of a school would cost these districts less than 10 cents on the $100.

We still have a few Wickless oil stoves left.

WATER & BURFORD.
